ACI's annual Advanced Forum on Import Compliance and Enforcement is the only event on the market that provides real-world information on the latest customs and import compliance developments from industry leaders who drive trade compliance.

Every year, import compliance professionals, international trade attorneys and senior Customs officials attend American Conference Institute's Advanced Forum on Import Compliance and Enforcement for the most up-to-date and comprehensive information on CBP enforcement initiatives, evolving customs requirements, supply chain security and enhancing internal controls. Now in its 6th successful year, this leading Forum will once again provide advanced and practical insights on the latest customs and import compliance developments.

Key issues including prior disclosures, FTAs, valuation and imported product safety continue to challenge even the most seasoned import compliance professionals. At the same time, more examinations and Requests for Information by CBP, ISA program changes, new C-TPAT risk assessment requirements, and heightened inspection activity of air-related cargo shipments are placing US importers under more pressure than ever before. Shipments are increasingly being scrutinized by CBP and audits are becoming more intrusive.

Attend this unique industry event and gain specific insights into how to tackle your most complex customs compliance challenges. Learn from and meet senior corporate customs compliance executives from companies including Williams-Sonoma, S.C. Johnson & Son, Dell, Northrop Grumman, GE Aviation, Hershey, IBM, Robert Bosch, and Abbott.

Benefit from a revised 2011 agenda, with a global spin, featuring an unprecedented speaker faculty and new panel sessions including:

- Status Update on Inter-Agency Communication, Information Sharing and Efforts to Streamline Import Procedures – a rare opportunity to get the answers to your most pressing questions directly from CBP, CPSC, FDA and USDA
- Managing customs valuation and transfer pricing issues
- Coordinating multiple cargo security program requirements
- Weighing Operational Strategies to Meet 100 % Air Cargo Screening Requirement
- EU 24 Hour Rule: Meeting Entry Summary Declaration Requirements
- Canada: Dealing with Increased CBSA Enforcement and Uptick in Audits

Advanced Benchmarking and Working Sessions – New this Year

- Benchmarking Session – The Core Elements and Structure of an Effective Import Compliance Program – take advantage of the opportunity to share best practices and gain insights from your peers
- Getting Customs Valuation Right – A Practical Working Session on How to Meet Increasingly Complex Valuation Challenges – workshop leaders will guide you through many of the Customs valuation issues encountered in day-to-day operations

Don't miss this rare opportunity to hear directly from CBP, CPSC, FDA, USDA, and ICE while benchmarking your import compliance procedures against those of your peers'. No other import conference delivers that much value in just two days. Call 1-888-224-2480; fax your registration form to 1-877-927-1563; or register online at www.AmericanConference.com/import.

Workshop A (9:00 a.m. – 12:30 p.m.)

Benchmarking Session –
The Structure and Core Elements of an Effective
Import Compliance Program

Georgia Barr

US Compliance & International Trade
S.C. Johnson & Son, Inc. (Racine, WI)

Meredith Covey

Director, Customs Operations & Compliance
Williams-Sonoma, Inc. (San Francisco, CA)

Suzanne J. Hoeger

Director, Global Trade Compliance & Policy
Abbott (Abbott Park, IL)

This exclusive session is a one-of-a-kind opportunity to benchmark your import compliance program against your peers'. Attendance will be limited to in-house executives to encourage open discussion and exchange of ideas and questions.

This small and interactive benchmarking session brings together seasoned trade compliance executives to discuss how to best implement, manage and monitor an effective import compliance program. Speakers will lay out a roadmap of best practices and individual concerns. Participants will have an opportunity to benchmark their programs with other companies and discuss issues and solutions related to automation, allocation of internal resources and management. The benchmarking session will focus on the type of information that the participants choose to share, and will be closed to outside counsel, consultants and government officials. Take advantage of this rare opportunity to have your specific import compliance questions answered and find out how other companies are addressing similar challenges.

Topics of discussion will include:

- Resources, tools and techniques leading companies are using to implement, manage, and monitor an import compliance program
- Selecting the optimal structure for your import compliance department
- What resources are companies expected to devote to import compliance
- Getting management buy-in: how to position compliance with your upper-management to encourage good practices
- How to train and communicate compliance requirements to increase employee adherence
- Automating the customs process
- Impact of new security requirements on your import compliance program
- Reviewing and upgrading internal controls related to imports to better meet security requirements
- Training supply chain partners on evolving security requirements

This Benchmarking Session is an excellent opportunity to share your ideas, issues and compliance initiatives with your colleagues and peers, and to hear their immediate thoughts and feedback.

Workshop B (1:30 p.m. – 5:00 p.m.)

Getting Customs Valuation Right –
A Practical Working Session on How to Meet
Increasingly Complex Valuation Challenges

Paul P. Vandever

International Trade Attorney
Office of the General Counsel
Ford Motor Company (Detroit, MI)

Bruce H. Leeds

Of Counsel
Braumiller Schulz LLP (Washington, DC)

US Customs valuation remains a major challenge for import compliance professionals. It is also high on the “hit list” during Customs Focused Assessment Audits. This practical workshop will guide you through many of the Customs valuation issues encountered in day-to-day operations. Subjects covered will include:

- Developing alternative methods of valuation for returns, defectives, inventory movements, zero dollar transactions, and no charge shipments
- Do you have a “price paid or payable”?
- Identifying and dealing with assists
 - Apportionment of the assist value
 - Implementing record keeping procedures to avoid overpayment of duties
 - Assist commissions royalties – dutiable considerations
- The “first sale rule” – what is it about and how to handle it
- Putting together a Computed Value calculation
- Valuation of non-purchased articles
- What to do when Customs rejects a declared value
- What can be learned from recent valuation rulings

Workshop leaders will bring a practical perspective to these and other valuation issues with an emphasis on constructive real-world information.
